

How practical is it to store things in these ways?

How easy might it be for people to find what they are looking for?

